

50 UNITS TO MARCH IN PARADE SUNDAY

Wheeling township tops county in personal property increases

Cook County Assessor John S. Clark released comparative figures on personal property assessments this week. Nearly half of the increase in the first 12 townships is credited to Theo. Studdmann, Wheeling township assessor.

Mr. Clark states "Wheeling township, where an assessment jumped over $657,699 over last year, has had an industrial and business growth over the previous year and a greater number of personal property returns than in 1947."

A comparison of the number of returns of Wheeling with other townships of similar population shows that Studdmann has done an excellent job. Many persons never received a personal property bill will get one next year. The total figures of Wheeling in 1947 were $1,774,938. The 1948 total is $2,432,637.

Elk Grove has a boost of $168,212, which is excellent for a town of that population. Palatine, has a boost of $171,387, which Mr. Clark thinks is an excellent showing. Otto Busse is Elk Grove assessor and Herman Devermann is Palatine assessor.

"Last year the number of incorporated businesses in Wheeling township were increased from 67 to 92, and unincorporated businesses mounted from 167 to 188," he said. "And 213 more individual tax schedules were received. Estates probated numbered 13 as compared with nine in 1947."

Assessments of bank share holders increased by $16,500 last year, he said.

A break down of the 1948 assessments for Wheeling follows: corporations, $1,354,474; businesses, $182,129; individuals, $801,537; banks, $69,000; estates, $25,497.

"Last year incorporated businesses increased by six and unincorporated businesses by two in Elk Grove, Clark stated. Forty-nine more individual personal property tax schedules were filed in 1948 and assessments were made on three estates as compared with only one in 1947."

Assessments on bank share-holders increased $500 over 1947, he said.

A break down of the 1947 and 1948 assessments for Elk Grove follows:

Corporations, $266,672; businesses, $69,303; individuals, $349,453; banks, $37,000; estates, $8,435.

The 12 country towns showed a total increase this year of $1,443,579 over 1947 totals.

Village saves $1,000 by new bid on fire truck

Monday night was bid night for Arlington Heights village board, which considered bids on a new fire truck, a new police car, paint job on the water tank and a 3-wheel motorcycle for the police department. The low bids totaled more than $18,000.

Two of the bids were let at once. Purchase of an 8 cylinder Ford car was authorized for $1843.77. An allowance of $300 was offered for the old car, which the board may sell through other channels. One of the aldermen offered $400.

THERE WAS a fifty per cent difference between two contractors for the painting of the water reservoir. The contract was awarded to James Hanlon & Sons for $1150. They did the previous job. The bid of Newman & Co. was $2352. Hanlon does the work himself.

A new motorcycle was offered the village for $1030 or a second hand machine for $650. The board favored the new outfit with its extras. The purchase will not be made at once. The machine, when purchased, will be used for patrolling parking lanes.

THE Seagraves-LaFrance fire truck controversy is again before the board. This time the American LaFrance bid is the lower. Seagraves named $15,094 as the price of a 750 gallon pumper. American LaFrance put the price of its truck at $14,390. All bids were rejected several months ago.

Bills approved for payment total $5,422.68. Parking fines for nine days amounted to $304. June motor fuel tax placed to the credit of the village is $1320. Permission of a contractor to break pavement on Douglas ave. in place of tunneling was refused.

INQUIRY of a board member why both trucks answer a prairie fire brought the reply that the fire equipment is used so seldom that it is advisable to place it in service frequently.

Curb removal permits will hereafter cost $5.00; sewer connection fees will also be raised to $5.

The village treasurer has received a check for $46,400, representing first installment of 1947 taxes.

State asks for bids to resurface Milwaukee avenue thru Wheeling

The state highway department has issued a call for bids, which will be opened July 30, on the following Cook county road improvements:

3.69 miles of 40-foot bituminous resurfacing on Route 21 from Cook-Lake county line north of Wheeling southeast to Des Plaines River road.

Zoo visitors have 'a bear of a time' at Brookfield park

Fifty-one youngsters, 5 to 16 years of age, from Arlington Heights and Mt. Prospect went on a zoo trip last Thursday to see the wonders at Brookfield park.

Although the boys were especially interested in the reptile section, monkeys, bears and giraffes were the favorites of the day. The children returned home at 3:15 p. m.

The children were accompanied by Laurel Middel, Esther Karstens and Chuck Johnson, Recreation park counselors, and Mrs. Wiggins, Mrs. Tews and Mrs. Henning.

Recreation park staff is anxious to sponsor as many events as possible for community children. The next planned event, besides the daily recreation program, will be running races for all age groups on Saturday morning, July 24. All children are invited to participate.

Citizens group adopts new plan for street widening

The citizens committee will present to Arlington Heights village board at its next meeting a revised street widening plan. Art Conser, who is recognized as an authority as to what approval can or can not be secured from the courts, in special assessment matters, appeared before the committee Tuesday evening.

At Conser's suggestions improvement of some of the cross streets will be dropped. While plans have been made for a comprehensive street widening job, it will be divided into three stages.

If the village board acts on the suggestion of the committee the present special assessment proceeding will be started on the more important streets this fall, to be followed later by extensions and widening of cross streets.

Street lighting will be a separate project.

Squirrels put one over on the police

Arlington Heights police received a new complaint this week when a resident of West Hawthorne street asked them to stop the squirrels from eating their prized apricots. The squirrels are still at large.

Firemen Mel Laseke and Ralph Meyer did a good turn the other day when they climbed a tree at 308 West Northwest highway and removed a kitten that was afraid to come down. Neighbors claimed the cat had been there two days.

Bensenville Home to hold festival Sunday, July 25

The Bensenville Home, supported by Evangelical and Reformed churches in Cook county and northern Illinois, is holding its annual festival and homecoming Sunday, July 25, beginning with a worship service at 11 a. m.

The advisory-finance committee of the new home for the aged hope to announce at festival time that, with subscriptions from churches and individuals, the $300,000 mark will have been passed for the erection of a new home for the aged.

The housing problems of the aged have become more urgent and critical as time goes by, and the need of an additional unit for them is clearly indicated. The capacity for service in the present Old People's home should not be a maximum of 55 as at present, but 30, for only one aged person should occupy each room. There is no doubt but that a new home for 150 old folks would be filled within a month, so great is the continual application for care.

Morning worship at 11 a. m. will begin the day's observance, with the Rev. Walter W. Lauer speaking to the assembly under the large oak trees on the campus. Mr. Lauer is a member of the advisory committee for the new home for aged, which will be constructed at an estimated minimum cost of $500,000.

Veteran officer first to receive pension checks

Wm. Heideman, who retired as a member of Arlington police force two months ago, is the first member to receive a pension benefit, which is half of his monthly salary, in this case amounting to $115 a month.

The pension fund was established under state law three years ago. Existing funds in the treasury amount to more than $11,000, a large part of which is invested in government bonds.

Police officers pay 3% of their monthly salary, and the village contributes 75% of dog license fees, 10% of fees for liquor licenses, business licenses, dog pound, fines and juke box licenses for the fund.

TREASURER Wm. F. Meyer presented his annual report to the village board last week. The pension board elected the following officers this week: Hugh Nichols, president; Herb Skoog, vice president; A. H. Franzen, secretary; Elmer Karstens, assistant secretary.

New police officers who have made application to come under the pension provisions are Albert Bauer, Richard Bracke and Roy Jahnke. Establishment of a pension fund is mandatory when municipalities reach 5,000 population.

Three Arlington police and Mt. Prospect chief aid lady in distress

Screams of a woman on North Pine street had two police departments looking for the assailant at 9 p. m. the other evening. The telephone operator first called Arlington Heights No. 6. Officers Karstens, Johnson and Bauer surrounded the house at the number on North Pine in Arlington Heights given them by the operator. They found everything quiet.

Before breaking into the door Karstens asked over the radio that a check be made on the address. The call should have gone to Mt. Prospect. Chief Whittenberg answered the call and quieted the husband.

Northside to get two new business blocks

Building operations in the business area of Arlington Hgts. are not going to be confined, to the southside. Wilbur Hartmann, who will start the erection very soon of a business block on North Dunton and Orville Baldwin has plans drawn and expects to erect a two-story business block on his property, north of the present Hartmann store.

WALTER KROEBER is the architect for both stores. The Hartmann building will be on the site of the present Hartmann homestead, constructed of Bedford stone and brick. Its size will be 30x61 feet. Mr. Hartmann will vacate his residence this week end and will reside temporarily with his father, Peter Hartmann, founder of the Hartmann shoe store 61 years ago.

Vincent Sadecky has purchased the building and will move it to North Belmont, where it will be remodeled into a modern home.

THE HARTMANN shoe store will occupy the new block, as soon as it is completed. The present shoe store building will be available for other business. Lannon stone will be used in the face of the Baldwin building which will occupy the site of the present small wooden building south of the paint store. It will be 28x42 feet, divided into two stores.

LOCAL CONTRACTORS are being asked to give figures on the erection of a store building for the use of the A&P to be built on Campbell street, west of the Masny store property. It will not be the conventional store type. Allowance will be made for customer parking and the street will be widened.

SAUERLAND FLORISTS took out a building permit this week for a haydite block flower shop to be erected on the two north lots in Searsdale on State road. Walter Kroeber is the architect. The features of the building will be a large display windows, and a flagstone court around which provision will be made for growing plants. The main building will comprise another room and work shop with an adjoining greenhouse.

Mr. Sauerland will retain his place on Algonquin road. "I intend to give the growing town of Arlington Heights a real flower shop," states the proprietor.

Commerce Commission approves closing of Palatine RR crossings

The Illinois Commerce commission last week authorized the closing of two crossings in Palatine, major changes in five more, and the installation of new protection by the North Western railroad at a pedestrian crossing.

10 drum and bugle corps, 8 fire depts., 20 floats climax VFW - Firemen show

One of the largest parades ever witnessed by Arlington Heights citizens will be staged Sunday, July 25, as a climax to VFW-Firemen week in Arlington Heights.

Assurances have been received that eight fire departments from surrounding towns. Ten drum and bugle corps from Chicago and vicinity will participate in the local festivities.

Air group 87, USN, to stage air show Sunday

Lt. Com. Geo. L. Brown, in command of USN air group 87, announced this week that his group of 12 planes will stage an air show over Recreation Park between 3:30 and 4:30 p. m. The commander is one of the week end warriors, who is a Chicago food broker during the week and a navy officer over the week end. This air show will be the closing feature of the parade.

It is in recognition of the importance of the VFW-Firemen celebration that Glenview authorities authorized participation of government planes in the event.

Community Imp. Ass'n. wins battle for R.R. crossing protection

When James B. Colvin, secretary of the Northwest Community Improvement group, Arlington Heights, asked the county board for better railroad protection at Euclid ave., and Wilke road, the organization hit a jack pot.

County Highway Superintendent George A. Quinlan informed the County Board of Commissioners Tuesday that two alleged unprotected railway crossings on Wilke road and Euclid avenue, where they cross the Chicago and North Western Railroad tracks south of Northwest Highway are included on the county railroad grade crossing improvement program.

Negotiations now are under way between the railroad and the board for contracts to make improvements, Quinlan stated.

Rattlesnakes are reported on farm near Wheeling

A report that rattlesnakes had invaded the chicken yard of a farmer on the Lake-Cook county road last week brought the admission from Charles G. Sauers, superintendent of the county's Forest Preserves, that the rattlers have existed in remote and swampy areas for some years.

The superintendent, however, was quick to deny any dangers in the presence of the small variety of rattlesnake that has its habitat in the county area.

"They are so small that their venom is ineffective," Sauers' office reported. "We have had reports of bites in past years," he admitted, "but none this year." No fatalities from bites are on record.

Few in number, the rattlers would be combatted with imported Texas king snakes if their number grew to any sizable proportions, Forest Preserve officials said.

LOCAL RATTLER is short — averaging about 22 inches in length — and is distinguished by black blotches down its back, or an almost entirely black coloration. It is known as the Massasauga or pygmy rattlesnake.

Forest Preserve spokesmen said the snake has been reported in the Potomac woods area — along the DesPlaines river — in the north, and at some isolated spots in the southern end of the county. It generally inhabits wet and swampy areas.

DR. EDWARD L. LARSON, who has headed the Wheeling hospital, on Milwaukee avenue, Wheeling, for 30 years, said that in the past he has kept serum on hand to treat snakebite victims, but that he has none at present. He added that probably he would obtain some again this year.

"I have had an occasional victim come in for treatment," the doctor said, "but it's only once in every two or three years."

No concert

Arlington Heights concert group of 70 area musicians will not present a concert this week due to the VFW-Firemen's carnival. However, the regular Thursday evening concert will be given at Recreation park next week.

Win bikes in subscription contest

'Live-wire' radio hams on the beam at early age

"CQ Mt. Prospect. CQ Mt. Prospect."

Any radio ham making this call would almost certainly get an answer from W9RLW, otherwise known as Joe Laird, or W9IT, Ed Holm. Their wives claim they are "always on the air."

Holm, who has a maximum power station, recently moved his family to their new home at 404 South Main street. For many years they lived next door to the Laird home at 312 Wapella avenue.

As a grade school youngster in Elmwood Park, Ed got in trouble with the teacher by stringing wires across the classroom so he and his pal could converse. Joe and his friends had a telegraph outfit and strung their wires from house to house in the downstate town where he lived.

The pattern from there is similar; both built up fairly good sets and in 1922 both got licenses to go on the air.

Hamming leaves very little time for anything else, so Ed put away his rig long enough to woo and win his Georgia belle, Grace.

Joe confesses his first set literally blew up, and he just didn't have the heart to rebuild one. Hilda, his wife, claims he never once mentioned his hobby while courting her. In fact, not until he met Ed on Wapella did he admit his weakness. He again succumbed and now has a three-quarter maximum strength station.

The amateur radio bugs do more than just have fun comparing notes on their rigs, adding to and changing equipment, and seeing how many new friends they can make.

A field day, sponsored by the American Radio Relay League, is held annually. Clubs from all over the country participate in this event. Its purpose is to train men, in case of emergencies, to set up a portable rig and log calls with no time lost. National recognition is given the club logging and most calls during the 24 hour period.

The Northwest Amateur Radio club, with 35 to 40 members, meets twice monthly at the local VFW house. Their station for this year's field day was at Deer Grove.

During storms, when phone lines were down, Joe has done emergency work, reaching out-of-the-way places in a hurry.

Ed has added a telephone hook-up to his set, and at the close of the war contacted many boys overseas, called their parents in this country, and made it possible for them to talk to each other.

Both took part in the national defense program through War Emergency Radio service. Although not allowed on the air, sets were prepared for operation in case of air raids or other emergencies.

Ed added the Civil Air Patrol to his activities, to teach radio to air cadets. "I guess I did more flying than teaching," he grins.

The night the FCC permitted the hams to take up where they had left off before the war will be long remembered. It seems no one could wait to try out their rigs. Long before the appointed hour the air waves began to carry messages. "Bugs Bunny calling Gravel Gertie," "Dick Tracy calling Lil Abner."

Local officials told suburban living is a luxury

Local villages were well represented Thursday night at the meeting called by Park Ridge Chamber of Commerce to hear James C. Downs, president of the Real Estate Research corporation make predictions as to the future of the northwest suburbs.

The reactions of the representatives of Mt. Prospect, as given to a representative of Paddock Publications, follow:

M. B. PENDLETON, Village

president:

"The speaker made it abundantly clear that living in the suburbs is an expensive luxury, and that continued demands for more frequent and elaborate public services by residents may well place the luxury above the ability of most of us to pay."

"It was a very thought provoking and challenging talk that I wish every citizen of Mt. Prospect might have heard."

RUSSEL SMITH, President, Dist. 57 Board of Education:

"Mr. Downs estimated that each child in school costs the taxpayers approximately $250 per year. This estimate is probably a little high insofar as District 57 is concerned, but is not far out of line."

"Therefore, families with more than one child in school do not, in most cases, pay sufficient taxes to cover the cost of educating their own children. This deficit is made up through taxes on families who do not yet have children in school, on older couples whose children have completed school, or on commercial or industrial organizations."

"In our own case homes built in recent years are, for the most part, occupied by families having children of school age. Mr. Downs estimates this will continue to be the type of family moving into this portion of Cook County. He pointed out the young married couple with no children of school age cannot usually afford to build in this area, while the older couple whose children are through school usually prefer smaller houses or apartments which are not available here."

"If growth in this territory continues to be largely families with children of school age, Mr. Downs predicts it will place an increasing burden on school districts which will not be adequately offset by increased taxes which these new families will pay."

L. B. MURPHY, Superintendent, Mt. Prospect public school:

"Schools, police services, fire protection, and many other services and institutions are supported largely by taxes on local real estate. We often feel that we should curtail or eliminate many local services when we receive our tax bills. However, we often forget the much greater total amount of taxes we are

Two rural schools kill plan for Barrington consolidation

School district 10 in Barrington-Palatine township and districts 42 and 43 in Hanover township defeated the Barrington school consolidation at an election held Saturday. Voters in the proposed consolidation district cast their votes in four precincts. The above three rural districts voted as a unit at the New Era school district 43, turning down the proposition by a vote of 24 "for" to 110 "against."

Schaumburg will not join Palatine high school district

Schaumburg township will not join outside school districts at present. That is the report given by the Schaumburg school planning committee. Mr. Henry Freise, chairman of the committee which held several public meetings last spring to discuss future school plans of Schaumburg, states that for the 1948-49 school year the township will continue on a non-high school basis as in the past. Tuition will be paid to any high school of the student's choice but each student must furnish his own transportation.

Mr. Freise states that Schaumburg may form a high school district of their own with part of Hanover township within the next year, but this will not mean that they will build a building and conduct their own school as enrollments would be too small. Under this plan students would be transported to other nearby high schools.

The voters of Barrington favored the consolidation, 70 to 2. Two rural districts adjacent to Barrington were almost unanimously in favor of the project, voting 24 to 3 and 30 to 0.

SCHOOL PATRONS in the three rural schools opposing the consolidation admit that they must pay high wages to secure teachers and must install modern conveniences in order to keep them, but "home rule is worth it," explained a school board member who was interviewed Tuesday morning.

Cook county school survey committee in its final report to the State superintendent of Public Instruction, recommended the proposed consolidation, but the election Saturday was not called by County Superintendent Simon, under the survey act. It was called by the county superintendent's office in response to a petition filed in that office.

SCHAUMBURG will await the passage of a new unit school law before changing its present school system. That was the information secured by Paddock Publications from a number of Schaumburg school officials.

They admit that the present operation of only one elementary school district in the entire township is not good education, but until a township wide unit school district for both elementary and high school purposes is formed they will continue to pay tuition in adjoining schools. There is some sentiment in school districts 51 and 52 to join Palatine elementary school district.

NON-HIGH SCHOOL territory in Wheeling and Elk Grove township which the county survey committee recommended be annexed to Arlington Heights high school district, has "beaten the gun" and is now part of that district.

No action has been taken by elementary school district 56, Forest View, on Arlington Heights road to unite with Arlington as is recommended by the county committee. That committee decided that pursuant to the desire of school patrons of the Wilson school, on Palatine road, it should remain as a single district.

PARK RIDGE and school patrons of district 64½ near the intersection of Oakton and Rand road voted four to one Saturday in favor of the consolidation, 193 to 44.

A CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION

100 years of service! We of the North Western are proud of this record; pleased to point to our growth from a few miles of strap-rail line with a single locomotive, to a 2,600-mile rail network serving nine states.

But we know well that the real credit for our progress must go to you, the traveler, the shipper, the farmer... to the generations in your family and community who had faith in this railroad, who stood with us through hard times and good in the realization that community development and good transportation go hand in hand. So in marking our 100th birthday, our thanks are to you—whose vision and assistance have made this event possible.

3 summer music recitals to close summer session

The first of three summer music recitals for Arlington Heights music lovers will be given Friday, July 23, at 2:30 p. m. at North school.

The recitals are being organized by Harold Brunt, music director of Arlington Heights elementary schools, and will feature selections by students attending the six weeks session of summer music.

Barbara Sheets and Julia Fuhr, both sixth grade students, will play two flute duets.

Two cello solos will be given by Bob Leiby, eighth grade, and Roberta Landmeier, sixth grade, will play two tenor saxophone solos.

Mr. Brunt also will play several selections, including Handel's "Largo," "My Heart Ever Faithful," by Bach, and Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata."

The second and third recitals will be held July 30 and August 6.

"Many Arlington people who can't get to the loop for good music will have an opportunity to see and hear talented youngsters in their own home town," Brunt stated. "We're all donating our services to present these concerts to the public and hope they will be successful."

City living can't compare with country life, say newcomers to Arlington, Mt. Prospect

New neighbors claim suburbs provide better environment for children

By HELEN CHRISON
Feature Editor

The call of country living has attracted hundreds of families to Arlington Heights, Mt. Prospect and other area towns from the vertical existence of city apartments.

Especially attractive to new neighbors who have adopted suburban living are the schools, churches and recreation facilities offered here, as interviews with recent newcomers have proved.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Radosti
402 Dryden place
Arlington Heights

"We've always lived in Chicago, but since we moved to Arlington Heights, we think a small town is the only place to have a home and raise children," Eleanor Radosti told the inquiring reporter.

The Radosti family moved here April 10 from Edison Park and is very happy with the new ranch-type home. Their two children are Lenore, who was 5 July 16, and baby Lynn, 14 months.

Mr. Radosti does repair work for L. A. Radio company, Chicago, and enjoys the half-hour commuting drive to the loop.

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Schaffer
720 S. Elmhurst road
Mt. Prospect

The Schaffers and their two boys moved to Mt. Prospect on May 8 from Jefferson Park, where they lived eight years. "We solved two problems at once when we found a house we liked in a town we liked," Frances Schaffer commented. "Although moving away from city living is quite a change for us, the boys already are thriving in their new environment," she added.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth H. Crone
311 S. Dunton avenue
Arlington Heights

"For three years my husband and I looked for a small town of schools, churches and parks," Colette Crone explained when asked why these new neighbors chose Arlington Heights.

"We searched for such a town within a wide radius of Arlington and both agreed the City of Good Neighbors would be the place to raise our baby son, Stephen Patrick."

The Crones moved here March 1 from Kansas City, Mo., which is the home town for both. Mr. Crone is a sales engineer for Gustin Bacon Manufacturing company, and admits he was glad of the transfer to the Chicago office, "as long as living in Arlington went with the change."

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Koop
315 S. Dunton avenue
Arlington Heights

The Koop family moved to Arlington Heights March 15, and Mrs. Koop and Mrs. Crone, her next door neighbor, have already become good friends.

"Our little girl Laurel has also found a new playmate in the young Stephen," Frances Koop stated, "which is just another reason why we've heartily adopted Arlington Heights as our new home town."

The Koops moved here from Wilmette, and have several relatives in Arlington, including Mr. and Mrs. Paul Collins, 618 Burton place, and Mr. and Mrs. Ken Wells, 431 S. Evergreen.

Mr. Koop is a buyer and expeditor for Majestic radio company, Elgin.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh B. Speer
700 S. Ioka avenue
Mt. Prospect

"Like most other families looking for a home of their own, we searched everywhere in the northwest suburbs for the ideal location," Mrs. Speer began the interview, "and we adopted Mt. Prospect during our first visit here."

The Speers, who moved into their new ranch-type home May 23, formerly lived in Madison, Wis., and spent many months in search of an ideal location in Park Ridge, La Grange, Elmhurst and other area towns.

The couple's two daughters, Barbara, 8, and Vicki, 7, are 18 months apart and are looking forward to meeting new friends this September in school.

Mr. Speer has been a salesman for Simmons company for eight and one-half years.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Hubbard
1120 W. Northwest highway
Arlington Heights

When the reporter asked for a picture appointment, Virginia Hubbard agreed, stating "If they close the Recreation Park pool, I may be able to gather my three sons in one place at one time."

The three boys, Carroll, 11, Michael, 9, and Allen 1 1/2 years, are enjoying the wide open spaces around Arlington, and particularly the acres in Recreation park.

The Hubbard family, originally from Jeffery Manor on Chicago's south side, moved to the northwest on March 1 and, like other new neighbors, think Arlington Heights is a good home town for growing youngsters. They have become acquainted with many of their neighbors and have visited in Palatine at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Mason, friends of their Chicago days.

Mr. Hubbard is a customer engineer for International Business Machines, Chicago, where he has been for 15 years. The commuting distance is almost the same, but the ride from Arlington Heights to the loop eliminates an extra bus and street car trip.

Carroll, who will be in the seventh grade at North school, plays the bass horn in the band and "likes school generally." He is also a camera fan. Michael's favorite school period, according to his mother, is recess. Both boys have already become members of an Arlington Heights Boy Scout troop. Young Allen spends most of his time with his mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Henneman
702 E. Evergreen avenue
Mt. Prospect

Marjory and Fred Henneman moved to Mt. Prospect April 29 via Grays Lake and Chicago.

Mr. Henneman, who for twenty-five years has been an electrical engineer with Commonwealth Edison company, learned of the advantages of Mt. Prospect through friends, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Schlemmer, 22 S. George, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bydall, 900 E. Evergreen, Mt. Prospect.

"Our friends were so earnest in their praise of Mt. Prospect that it was not long before we were convinced this was the town we wanted," Mrs. Henneman stated.

"Tillamook Burn"
One of Oregon's greatest forest fires occurred in 1943. This fire known as the "Tillamook burn" swept over nearly 150,000 acres of forestland.

Rosie Wolfe bride of Adolph Miller

Wedding vows were said Saturday, July 17, by Rosie Wolfe, nee Beigel, daughter of Mrs. Bertha Beigel, of 1 S. Pine, Mt. Prospect, and Harry H. Miller, son of Adolph Miller, 324 S. Chester, Park Ridge.

The ceremony took place in St. Paul Evangelical Lutheran church, Mt. Prospect, with Rev. J. E. A. Mueller officiating.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother Arthur Beigel, wore a powder blue, taffeta dinner gown with a bustle. She also wore a blue hat with a short veil, and carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations. Gold earrings were a gift of the groom, and an heirloom gold locket was a gift from her mother.

Mrs. Ann Rodrian of Palatine, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and wore a pink taffeta dress similar to the bride's gown. She wore a pink hat and carried a colonial bouquet of pink and blue carnations. She also wore a double strand of pearls, a gift of the bride.

Mrs. Bertha Beigel, mother of the bride, wore a blue sheer, street-length dress with black accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Cecil Logan, the groom's brother-in-law, was best man, and ushers were John Gilbert, another brother-in-law, and Oscar Beigel, brother of the bride.

The church altar was banked with baskets of pink carnations and white gladioli. Organist was E. Jackisch.

A beautiful wedding cake was given the couple by their friends Mr. and Mrs. Julius Weiss and Mr. and Mrs. John Kramer, all of Des Plaines. The cake had five tiers and weighed 80 pounds.

A reception for 100 friends and relatives was held at the VFW clubhouse in Mt. Prospect and music was furnished by Homer's Melody, followed by a midnight supper.

The couple left for Milwaukee, Wis., where they will spend a brief honeymoon. They will make their home in Mt. Prospect with the bride's mother.

This Month in Your Service BULLETIN

THE COUNTY FAIR season gets under way next month in Northern Illinois, and to mark the colorful occasion, we have collected items on our early farmer-festivals by paging through old, old copies of the Prairie Farmer, a publication which has stumbled ardently and sincerely for the County Fair ever since 1841. We were lucky enough to find accounts of the inaugural fairs—we were surprised to learn just how many years ago they were held—in our counties. We conjectured on the "division of interests" which caused one county to hold two annual fairs for years until the opposing factions kissed and made up. Until our research, we had no idea that some of our counties imported livestock from the East for their early exhibitions, or that they displayed steam-operated threshers and mills so soon. And the names of their farm products—such as applemelon, Imphee—aroused our curiosity. Some of the correspondents—and contributors too—were unintentionally amusing as they pursed their lips and shook their heads in disapproval of "lady equestrians" and "catchpenny concerns" on the grounds. So hi-ho, come to the fair of long ago in OUR COUNTY FAIRS illustrated by John McKee.

American Legion auxiliary notes

A special meeting of Merle Guild Unit 208, the American Legion Auxiliary, Arlington Hts., will be held at Legion hall Wednesday, July 23, at 8:00 p. m., for the purpose of electing officers. A full attendance is desired.

The rehabilitation chairman, Eleanor Taylor, and the president, Merle Holtz, spent last week, Wednesday, at Vaughn hospital, performing helpful duties in the ward assigned to them.

Plan picnic August 5

The Martha Circle of St. John Evangelical and Reformed church, Arlington Heights, will hold a picnic on the Bensenville Home grounds August 5.

Announce betrothal at supper garden party

Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Shelkop announced the betrothal of their daughter, Juanita, to John C. Ebel, son of Mrs. John Ebel Sr. of Barrington Saturday evening at a buffet supper and garden party at their country home on Rand road, Arlington Heights.

Since Miss Shelkop's and Mr. Ebel's birthdays were the 13 and 20 of July, the affair was also a joint birthday party in their honor. Over fifty guests were present, including Mr. and Mrs. Lee Schaefer of Fox River Grove, their son, Lee John, and Dr. and Mrs. Barnum of Barrington.

The evening was spent watching television out-of-doors and making records. Prizes were given for the most novel ones made.

Miss Shelkop is a graduate of Arlington Heights high school, has edited several teen-age columns and written feature articles for the Arlington Heights Herald. Mr. Ebel is a graduate of Barrington high school and served in the Army Air Forces. Both attended the University of Illinois.

The engaged couple have set a tentative date of next spring for their marriage.

Dr. and Mrs. Virnig move to Arlington

A newcomer, Dr. M. F. Virnig, has been added to the list of professional men in Arlington Heights. Dr. and Mrs. Virnig arrived here two weeks ago and make their home in the former Russell place, corner of State and Euclid.

The doctor, who is a dentist, has attended St. John university at Collegeville, Minn., and is a graduate of Marquette university school of dentistry, Milwaukee, Wis.

Before moving here Dr. and Mrs. Virnig made their home in Milwaukee, where the doctor practiced and was associated with three other dentists. Since their marriage last September they have been looking for a nice "home" town in which to settle and finally chose Arlington Heights because it has so much to offer.

Mrs. Virnig's parents are the Paul Immels, who have lived in Arlington since 1944.

Dr. Virnig has already started business here and has his offices right in his home, 114 East Euclid.

Two plants brought back from Europe in 1936 by Mrs. Henry H. Brown, 211 N. Haddow, are now blossoming. Both resemble a cactus. The "needles", however, are pliable and do not "prick". One plant has never blossomed until this year. It has four large white "star-like" blossoms. The other plant bloomed for the first time in 4 years. Its flowers are deep red, and "wax" like in consistency, like the first. Mrs. Brown will be glad to show them to anyone who is interested.

The first birthday of Susan Kay Bahr was celebrated Monday, when a few relatives and friends dropped in to wish the little girl "happy birthday." Mr. and Mrs. Harry Topping spent last week end in Ft. Wayne, Ind., where they visited their daughter and husband, the John McDonalds.

Miss Marjorie Nelson left Monday for New York City after spending two weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Edwin Nelson, 402 N. Douglas. Miss Nelson is a trained nurse and works at the Payne-Whitney hospital, New York City. She lived for many years in Arlington Heights, attending local schools, before moving to New York.

Military rites honor two local servicemen

Two military services were held in Arlington Heights Wednesday, honoring Captain Edward Dearie and 2nd Lt. Philip Kaiser, both killed while in the service of their country.

CAPTAIN DEARIE
The Arlington Heights VFW Post 981 were in charge of the military services for Captain Dearie, which were held from the Lauterburg and Oehler chapel to the St. James Catholic church at 9:30 a. m. Interment was in All Saints cemetery.

Capt. Dearie was born April 22, 1917, in Reno, Penn., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Dearie. He was a graduate of Arlington Heights high school in June, 1936. He was granted a college degree from Amherst college, Mass., in 1940. He had previously attended Purdue university, Indiana, and Riverside, California, college.

Edward entered service in April, 1940. He reported to Camp Forrest, Tenn., for basic training, and was later sent to Ft. Benning, Ga., officer candidate school, where he became a second lieutenant in August, 1942. After two weeks at Camp Blanding, Fla., Eddie was sent to England, where he arrived in October of that year.

Capt. Dearie stayed in England for 20 months, where he became a first lieutenant. He crossed the channel to France on D-day, June 6, 1944. He was killed August 30, 1944, at Brest, France, while commanding a company of infantry in action against the Germans in France.

While in combat Capt. Dearie received the combat infantryman's badge, plus the bronze star with two oak leaf clusters.

He received the title of Captain posthumously, as did he a citation for information he gathered behind the enemy lines.

Capt. Dearie's mother, Love Dearie, died shortly after he did. He leaves his father, Edward B. Dearie, and sisters, Jane O'Neill, Mary Calvin, and Joan, and brothers, Charles K. and Jerome.

2ND LT. KAISER
Final rites for 2nd Lt. Phillip W. Kaiser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Kaiser of Mt. Prospect, were held from the Karstens-Fairbanks funeral home, with Rev. R. M. Fumish of Aurora officiating. Military honors were in charge of the Mt. Prospect American Legion Post. Final interment was in Mt. Emblem cemetery.

Second Lt. Kaiser was born June 30, 1922, in Anderson, Ind., and was baptized in the First Methodist church there in 1924. He received his grade school education in Mt. Prospect and graduated from the Arlington Heights high school in 1940. He attended the University of Indiana for two years and the Chicago Y. M. C. college one year.

In December 1942 Phillip enlisted in the U. S. Air Corps, and at Freeman Field, Seymour, Indiana, was commissioned 2nd Lt. and received his wings. He went overseas in October, 1944, after an extensive training program throughout the States.

On one of his many missions he was forced to bail out near Amiens, France. It was here he fractured his right leg, and was hospitalized for some time. He was awarded the Caterpillar medal, as well as the Air Medal.

In March 1945 he was assigned a new crew and was placed back on flying status. March 25, 1945, on entering formation over England for a large raid, due to bad weather, his plane collided with another. All members of each crew, except one in each plane, were killed.

Before being returned to this country 2nd Lt. Kaiser was interred in the U. S. military cemetery near Cambridge, England.

Plaines Thursday evening, July 15. Through the efforts of the refreshment chairman and her committee the food was "tops" and there was plenty to eat for all.

After the roast everyone went over to the Methodist swimming pool and several of the girls donned their bathing suits and took a quick dip.

The next meeting of the sorority will be Thursday evening, July 29, at Rand Park in Des Plaines.

M A S C A Y S

The United States Olympic team has departed for London and the XIV Olympiad to be held between July 29 and August 14. It is the first since World War II. When Americans think of Olympics they think of track and field events but in reality this is just one phase of a great sports program of which quite a part was held in Switzerland last winter. Americans think of track and field mainly because of the greater publicity given by the American press to which part of the program in which the U. S. athletes usually excel. In other sports many of our best athletes are professionals and the Olympic games are strictly amateur competition.

The U. S. team appears to be at least the equal of any to represent this country in the summer games. In the trials at Evanston seven marks were better than the Olympic record. Even though such great athletes as Gil Dodds, Charles Fonville, and Harrison Dillard will not be in there competing in their world record events the team is still expected to win easily from over 60 nations sending teams. The U. S. athletes are powerful in the hurdles, weights and jumps and weak only in the long distance events.

U. S. sportsmanship code higher than other nations

There has been a great deal said about the Olympic Games bringing about better relations between nations. There is no question about relations on an athletic basis being improved through competition of this type but still these games usually have their disputes and hard feeling. One reason is that the rules of sport are not alike in all countries. For instance basketball has been played at past Olympics with altogether different interpretation of rules by officials than is customary in this country. In many European countries men go to the Olympics with the thought that they are bringing disgrace to their country if they fail to win. Under such conditions sports many times are turned into little less than semi-controlled warfare with win at any price the goal. There is no question but that the code of sportsmanship in this country is a great deal higher than anywhere else in the world. The Olympic games do tend to raise other countries a little nearer to our code of fair play which calls for being good losers as well as good winners.

Gives great impetus to sports competition

The greatest value of the Olympics is the impetus it gives to sports in all the nations. Many games which have been strictly American, through the Olympics, have become world activities. The competition to make the Olympic team, the goal of men and women in all sports, brings out the best in them and raises the standard of skill and accomplishment. Greater progress has been made in track than any sport in the last decade, in the development of skill necessary to better world marks.

When the athletes of nearly all the nations come together and compete for a two week period as will be the case at London there ought to be a good chance for world peace. The athletic leaders seem to be able to thrust out international differences as to codes, rules, standards, etc. Unfortunately the political leaders of the nations are not so successful or not so willing to give and take.

Navy seeks aviation cadets; recruiting officer at Arlington

A new program to provide the fleet air groups with young aviators and to insure a continuous flow of cadets into the navy's flight training facilities has recently been inaugurated. The navy recruiting officer who visits Arlington Heights every Tuesday morning will accept applications, for this training, at the village hall.

Young men 18 to 25, unmarried, and who have satisfactorily completed a minimum of two full academic years in an accredited college or university may apply.

A national quota of cadets has been established for 1948. Quotas for this area are limited and will be filled on a first come, first served basis.

Applicants who successfully pass the local preliminary examination will be sent via government expense to Chicago, for further examination and eventual assignment to flight school. Successful applicants will be assigned to flight training schools at Corpus Christi, Texas or Pensacola, Florida.

After completion of flight training cadets will be appointed to the rank of Ensign, with a commission in the U. S. Naval Reserve.

Accepted candidates will be required to obligate their services to the navy for a period of 4 years.

Many evergreens that have turned brown this spring as result of drying cut the past winter are likely to recover. They should not be destroyed until it is absolutely certain they are dead.

Redwings turn hose on Chgo. firemen for 11-9 victory

Five home runs hit in spectacular game at Recreation Park

Five home runs in the Redwing-Fireman game last Sunday, which usually represents a full season of slugging, highlighted a Redwing 11-9 victory. The game was called with two out in the ninth inning, when the Fireman catcher, Joe Vrba, protested a called strike so violently that he was ejected from the game. Being out of substitutes, the visitors could not continue, so the game was called.

THE PUBLICITY that some mighty strange things happen when the Redwings play ball, was certainly true Sunday. In the first inning the visitors collected 4 runs with the help of two home runs. The home team even amazed themselves by recovering from the shock, scoring 4 times to even the score. Their run making continued each inning paced by Simpson's and Henry's homers.

In the seventh the third visitor four bagger seemed to threaten Schaefer's ability to stay in the game. Somehow the Redbirds managed to hang on and stagger to victory.

THE BIG blow came in the final inning when the fire brigade surrounded the umpires with a verbal and physical barrage of such proportions that any demonstration put on by Redwing manager Ed Wahl during his 20 year career could be classified as a kindergarten class room discussion in comparison.

Anyway, while it was a hot tiring day for the players, an expensive one for the home team with the visiting team guarantee, half dozen balls at $2.10 each, 3 broken bats at $3.50 each, and two umpires' fees, it was a swell show for the fans, many of whom, according to the veteran collector, Mike Oeflein, enjoy the spectacle for 10c or 15c per grandstand seat, belligerently voicing their disapproval when they do not get a major league caliber show.

THE REDWINGS may have been a bit groggy Sunday after a 10-4 defeat in Oak Park on Saturday afternoon. Jack Brumm, assisted by very loose defensive strategy and ability saw seven runs cross the plate in the fifth inning, which resulted in the downfall.

Redwings travel to North Chicago Sunday but will return to Recreation Park Sunday, August 1, meeting the league leading Woodstock team.

Standings

Future big-leaguers see Cubs, Phillies play at Wrigley field

Members of the baseball teams at Arlington Heights Recreation park took a busman's holiday Monday, July 19, to see the Phillies play the Cubs.

Although some of the Cub fans were unhappy over the 5-4 score in favor of the Phillies, all the boys spent an interesting day watching the big leagues in action.

The 33 boys were accompanied by four sponsors. The park staff wishes to thank Mrs. Maher and Mr. Michalski for the use of their autos.

Arlington sixth grade team leads league with four victories

Arlington Heights sixth-graders are out in front in inter-park competition this season.

The boys won their fourth victory last Thursday over Des Plaines, which was their third win in a row. The local team has been playing smart baseball, and Eddie Fritz is the batting star, along with little Ray Stockwell.

On Thursday the sixth grade team will be out for revenge against Park Ridge, which is the only team to have beaten the Arlington boys.

Len Arnold breaks par in Twilight golf league

Len Arnold of the Voss Food Shop golf team, shot a one under par round of 34, which would have been a major item in defeating his opponents, but Bob Kalteux of Dunteman's Dairy, countered with an excellent one over par round of 36. To help Dunteman's eke out a victory of 4 1/2 to 3 1/2, Bob Helm of the Sieburg Drug team, had a low net score of 31 to help his team defeat Eddie's Liquors, 6-2.

The standing after 12 nights of play is as follows:

Arlington Bowling Lanes	59 1/2
Arlington Natl. Bank	56
Dunteman's Dairy	54
Eddie's Liquors	51 1/2
Voss Food Shop	49 1/2

Calumet's 'Fervent' heads list for $50,000 Arlington handicap Saturday

Women of the Moose to hold Alumni chapter night August 3rd

Portage Park Chapter No. 427, Women of the Moose, will hold Mooseheart Alumni Chapter Night at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 3 at the Moose hall, 5835 W. Irving Park road with Senior Regent Janet McKeen, 4540 N. Kenneth ave., presiding.

Chairman of Mooseheart Alumni Lee Barker, 4209 W. School st., has planned the program. Guest speaker Catherine McMurray, 1930 Grace st., College of Regents, Portage Park No. 427, will speak on the Mooseheart Revolving Fund for the graduates of Mooseheart.

Assisting on the committee are co-chairman Agnes Wiertz, 5401 1/2 Warwick ave.; Cecelia J. Anderson, 4949 Winona ave.; Dorothy Parker, 3582 Milwaukee ave.; and Ruby Conley, 4710 Barry ave.

Guest chairmen have been invited from the nearby chapters.

Arlington Park went into the last two weeks of its meeting this week with some of the most important stakes of the summer in prospect during the fortnight. Calumet Farm's great three year old champion, Citation, was scheduled to run Wednesday in the $20,000 Dick Welles stakes at a mile as a final preparation for his engagement on closing day, July 31 in the Arlington Classic, which will gross in the neighborhood of $90,000.

On Thursday of this week the sprinters renewed their spirited competition in the $25,000 Myrtlewood Stakes.

The $50,000 Arlington handicap, which annually is one of the most colorful occasions of the meeting, will be presented Saturday. In this rigorous test of a mile and a quarter, Calumet Farm's Fervent will attempt to defend the position which he acquired in winning the Equipoise Mile early in the meeting. He ran in the $50,000 Stars and Stripes Handicap but on that occasion his celebrated stablemate, Citation, took care of maintaining Calumet Farm's prestige, while Fervent was running a leisurely sixth.

Classic Week—July 26 to July 31—will be punctuated by the $25,000 Pollyanna stakes on Wednesday the 28th, and the $30,000 Arlington Matron Handicap on Thursday the 29th. Then on Saturday the 31st Citation will undertake to do what Whirlaway, Bimelech, Johnstown and other outstanding three year olds of the past failed to do—win the Arlington Classic.

POSTAGE FEES FROM GERMANY TO U. S. JUMPS TEN TIMES

Inflation in Germany has hit the postage fees. Prior to June 20 the better postage between that country and the U. S. was 50 pfennig. Since that date it is ten times greater, 500 pfennig. Letters now being received are practically covered by the required postage stamps. The price of a letter from this country to Germany is still 5 cents for regular mail and 15c for air-mail.

Arlington softball race nip and tuck in second round; Turf Billiards upset

With over a week of the second round passed, Arlington softball league has become a close race. Every team except Riviera and Pape & Guenther have lost at least one game.

Turf Billiards, who practically walked away with the first round, are finding things a little tougher this round. They started the second round by losing to Wheeling, 4-1. El Rando then came back and trounced Wheeling by a score of 7-1.

Pape & Guenther almost upset Turf Billiards July 14 with some spectacular defensive plays but the Turf team scored three runs in the seventh inning to gain a 4-4 tie before the game was called due to darkness.

RIVIERA dumped Haseman's 5-2 July 15, and El Rando gave the Turf Billiard team its third "rough time" of the second half July 16. Their 7th inning rally

Local scouts active at summer camp

The second group of Northwest Suburban Council Scout campers is now in attendance at Twin Lakes Reservation, camp of the Oshkosh, Wis., Council. The feature of the second period, in addition to the regular camp program, will be another canoe trip down the Pine River.

In camp, the scouts participate in three types of program each day. They spend one period at the water front, which includes swimming, boating and canoeing. They spend the next period at the scoutcraft area, where they practice various phases of boy scout advancement program. As they become proficient through practice, they are given credit for attaining advancement in rank. The third period of the day is spent in the Handicraft Lodge.

This year, horncraft, i. e., making useful articles from cow horns is one of the main attractions. There is also wood carving, leather work and bead work. There is one activity period in the morning and two each afternoon.

In the late afternoon, all scouts in the camp have an opportunity for a recreational swim, where no instruction is given. The evening programs include campfires, night games and special features at the water front.

With a rigorous program, scouts must have adequate sleep. Taps sound at 9:30 and reveille at 7:30 the next morning.

Scouts from the Northwest Suburban Council attending second period include: Tom Bauer, Michael Bird, Robert A. Blohm, Paul S. Byrd Jr., Ronald Cassell, David Clearman, Tom Cleaver, Andrew Cochran, John H. Cooper, James Dilley, Q. Wheeling Day crowds see new fire truck

Another very successful Wheeling Day celebration last week end has been recorded in the annals of Wheeling Chamber of Commerce and the Volunteer Fire Department.

Crowds were large both evenings and stayed late, thanks to the almost perfect cooperation of the weatherman. The pervading spirit was aptly expressed by a seven year old as he said, "I'm having fun!"

Particularly pleased people at the celebration and the reasons for their happiness, were 3-year-old Kathy Kay, because of a 1949 Ford; Robert Toppel of Palatine, freezer-refrigerator combination; Miss Dolores Wright, power lawn mower; Mrs. W. Bickford, Chicago, vacuum cleaner; E. Schmidt, Winnetka, floor lamp; Miss Myrtle Cameron, of Arlington Heights, radio.

Sunday evening the new fire truck of which the fire department is justly proud, was on display. As soon as certain necessary accessories for the truck are received, it will be ready for service. Since the first Wheeling Day celebration was held 21 years ago, the tradition has grown as a community enterprise for the benefit of the community, of which the new fire truck is another fine example.

Members of the chamber of commerce, Harry Davis, president, and the volunteer fire department, Edward Gieseke Jr., chief, are grateful to all who contributed to the success of the two-day carnival.

Gems of thought

MENTAL ARMOR

Keep always with you, wherever your course may lie, the company of great thoughts.

Of this we may be sure: that thoughts winged with peace and love breathe a silent benediction over all the earth, cooperate with the divine power, and brood unconsciously o'er the work of His hand.

—Mary Baker Eddy

We must not let go manifest truths because we cannot answer all questions about them.

—Jeremy Collier

We can never learn the lesson too deeply that our action in the common places of life is deciding our destiny.

—F. B. Meyer

The true way to live is to bring to each duty that comes to our hand our wisest thought and our best skill.

—J. R. Miller

Quiet minds cannot be perplexed or frightened, but go on in fortune or misfortune at their own private pace, like a clock during a thunderstorm.

The major lesson "Color Harmony in Clothing" was given by Home Advisor Claradell Upham. Primary colors, color values and color intensity were points emphasized, also color problems of the individual were shown by having volunteers show the effects of color for the individual with different types of hair and skin tone.

The minor lesson on "Pressing in Clothing" was given by Mrs. J. Brecht and Mrs. H. Schlottbeck. They gave a demonstration how to use tailor hams, pressing mits and press cloths on various garments to be pressed. This was a repeat lesson given several years ago which was a refresher for many members and an interesting one for new members.

A special lesson on flower arrangement will be held Tuesday July 27, at the home of Mrs. G. Emmerson, Wagner road, Glen View, starting at ten o'clock. Members are to bring their own lunch and coffee will be served by the hostess.

The annual picnic of the group will be held Thursday, August 19, at 11 a. m. at Ehrhardt's Grove, Talcott road, near Doe road. All who are going to attend the picnic are to bring their own lunch, utensils, etc. Mrs. Dreyer will furnish the coffee.

Suburban publishers hold annual outing to Northern Michigan

Chicago and Suburban Publishers association will hold their annual outing to Escanaba, Northern Michigan on Thursday, July 23. The entire expense per person is $15, which includes round-trip ticket, first class meals, berths, etc. A large passenger steamer has been chartered for the excursion. The boat stops at all principal points and leaves Chicago at 1:30 p. m. Guests and friends are welcome to go on the cruise.

Village advocates safety precautions for intersections

Palatine farmers having hedges on their property at road corners should keep the same trimmed for the protection of the public. A bad accident recently was narrowly averted between an auto and a wagon because of such hedges. The view was so obstructed that neither party was aware of the approach of the other. No hedge should be more than 4 or 5 feet high. Several Palatine citizens also have advocated the passing of an ordinance declaring a nuisance all barns within 25 feet of the sidewalk. Moving these barns would enhance the value of property several times the cost of moving. The passing of such an ordinance would mean starting a movement that would spread over the entire village.

Palatine starts remodeling program on school property

Palatine board of education has taken the initiative in beautifying the village by deciding to make some extensive improvements on school grounds. Landscape artist Harry Klehm, of Arlington Heights, is preparing plans and his recommendations probably will be followed. The cinders now on the grounds will be taken off, proper drainage installed, the ground plowed, fertilized and sowed to seed at once. A curb will also be put in. Shrubbery and flowering plants of the nature now in the railroad park will be set out. Provision will be made for a tennis court and basketball grounds. In fact, everything will be done to make it a school ground to be proud of.

Tales of the STREET

BY T. C. HART

RACE TRACK STORIES

Nowhere on the green globe do funnier things happen and no funnier sayings heard than at a race track, for nowhere else does a more varied cross-section of the public gather in one place.

At Arlington park recently we heard a discussion between an elderly gentleman and his wife. The man was wearing one of those eyeshade, harness-on-the-head contraptions and his wife was trying to adjust it. "It looks better that way," she said.

He promptly put it back to its original position. "It feels better this way," he retorted, "and after all, it's my head."

"You're right," she responded sweetly, "you wear your hat the way you want, and I'll wear mine how I want."

Another argument between a couple centered on her blaming her husband because she hadn't bet on a winning horse.

"Well, why didn't you bet?" barked the man. "You've got your money, and I've got mine, and we can each bet on who we please. Don't blame me for losers and don't ask me which one I think will win."

Another young fellow, armed with a racing form and several newspaper selections, was trying to impress his girl friend. She paid no attention to him or the handicappers, and insisted on betting on long shots that she picked at random.

Well, it was a "long shot day," and she connected with three winners that paid off at beautiful numbers. Meanwhile, her handicapping escort was having a bad time.

After the fifth race, he mopped his brow and remarked, "If things don't pick up pretty quick, we won't eat tonight."

She responded sweetly, "Never mind, honey, I've made enough so we can eat all next week, even if you can't catch a winner."

Another man and his wife and daughter, at the track for the first time, were exclaiming over the flowers and the view and the spacious accommodations of the big plant. They also got a kick out of seeing the horses saddled and the colorful parade to the post with the spirited animals dancing along and the jockeys in gay colors.

After the second race, however, big tears welled up in the little girl's eyes. "The poor little horses; they make them run so hard," she bewailed.

Her father tried to point out the horses enjoyed the chase, and showed her the winner in the winner's circle tossing his head proudly. But the little girl pointed to some of the losers being taken back to the stables. "Yes, that one is proud," she said, "but the others don't act very happy."

No matter what her Daddy said, she never became quite reconciled "to those poor little horses being made to run so hard."

After the last race was over and the crowd was leaving the plant, one group of colored people called to another, "Did you-all have that hot tip in this last race?"

"Yeh," responded one of the colored girls, "we had him but he folded up like a damned old book."

A group of colored stable boys clustered along the rail and cheered mightily for Bewitch to win a big stake race.

After Bewitch had won, and the "Inquiry" sign went up, those boys were in a dither for a few moments.

"Whoooooee," ejaculated one of them, "if those numbers go down, they won't be any more raises around the barn." Then the "official" sign flashed on the board, and the colored boys breathed easy again.

Many other interesting characters at the track are seen no more. Among those we miss are old Eddie, the barber, who used to set up shop in a vacant stall and do barbering among the track help. In his spare hours, he roamed Arlington park fields searching for a certain type of milkweed which he insisted was a cure for diabetes.

Another personality we miss is "Bo," a little colored fellow who used to work for the Congressman Kurz stable when that outfit was at Dean's farm. After the congressman gave up the racing game, little "Bo" roamed the country with various stables, but he would always show up at Arlington park. One day he'd look like something the cat dragged in, and the next he'd be dolled up in regalia that made him look like a young millionaire.

"Bo" had a horror of the "powlice," as he called them, but we never heard of his getting in trouble. Then one day we heard "Bo's" shrill wail raised in protest against two burly cops and their chief who surrounded him. We went over to the group and Bo's sad face lighted up when he saw us.

"There's a gentleman who knows me," stated Bo. "He can tell you I'm no criminal. A few words with the officers, and Bo was a free man. The next day the story was all over the farm and paddock area of the track. Bo had been grabbed by the police, and Mr. Tom had come along and sprung him loose!

Then there was the colored boy "Yellow Jacket," from New Orleans who asked us one day if "that town you live in lets colored people come there." "Sure," we told him. "As long as you behave yourself you're welcome." Yellow Jacket and his friends became regular patrons of Palatine business houses. Yellow Jacket never did get over the day he walked to town one hot July noon to tell his friends, "Don't bet on the Fiddler; this ain't the day." And then the Fiddler romped in at box car figures.

But it wasn't Yellow Jacket's fault. Even the owner was called before the stewards to explain the horse's sudden form reversal. In fact, the owner hadn't even bet a dime on the race, and he convinced the stewards the horse's win was just one of those things that happen at a race track.

Yes, old Eddie, Little Bo, and Yellow Jacket will be missed at the track. They were always the source of a good story, and it was an experience to hear their stories about the big tracks like Arlington and New York as compared to the "leaky roof" circuits of the half-milers.

ABOUT DUE

While we've been talking about racing it came to us it's just about time for our friend, North Chrisman, of Iowa, to be showing up for a visit to the Arlington races.

Mr. Chrisman is a veteran of many long years in the racing game and he usually tries to get around for a week or two at Arlington park along about classic time.

NEW RECORD

Palatine meter take for the last week was a record $133.82, being garnered from the machines, with the addition of several battered pennies that were taken out of circulation.

SPRAYING

The county has had a spray truck operating in the forest preserve for several days, spraying thistles and other obnoxious weeds. If thistles in that forest preserve can be controlled, at last it will be greeted as a welcome blessing by farmers who have battled the thistle menace for years.

Many farmers are also using 2-4-D preparation with very good results, so it looks as if science at last will cure the Canada thistle menace and control other pestiferous weeds.

MORE BENCHES

The bench fever is growing. Dr. C. A. Starck and Dr. C. D. Starck have joined the bench movement and have placed benches on both the north and west sides of the Starck building.

Some of the boys got the idea that with benches in front of the drug store, curb service should be supplied, so they plopped down on the benches and clamored for service, but no service showed up.

Probably Lena thinks it's bad enough to have that gang on the inside at times without furnishing them curb service.

NOISE

We've heard lots of people talking about the noise being made by those motor cycles, motor bikes, and motor scooters, or whatever you call them. In fact, at a recent Palatine village board meeting, an examination of the village code showed an ordinance requiring licenses for motor bikes. Under the existing law, these vehicles must display lights, both front and back, which most of the motorcycles do not do.

The complaints about them revolve around the noise they make with open cut-outs. Some of the youngsters seem to delight in making as much of a racket as possible.

Registered Nurse Count

There are approximately 320,000 registered professional nurses in the United States today.

Arlington alderman reveals parking study

PARKING

Every town has its parking problems and Alderman Wm. H. Luehring of Arlington Heights has submitted to the Fence Post this week a resume of what those problems are to the village, the police, the pedestrian and to the autoist. The alderman covers a lot of territory in his article, but because of the divergence of opinion on parking matters, Mr. Luehring's letter is published in full.

Since motor vehicles fail of their purpose unless they can be brought to rest at or near their destinations, the parking problem is actually a component part of the general traffic problem. In the downtown sections of many cities it won't matter much what else is done to make traffic flow more safely and smoothly unless at the same time action is taken to control curb parking and to provide ample off-street facilities.

The natural and ideal place to park, from the customer or worker standpoint, is at the curb in front of the place of business. Unfortunately, the demand for convenient downtown curb space exceeds the supply many times over, and so cities are forced to stretch the usefulness of the curb space by limiting parking to short periods. If that is not done, studies have shown that employees themselves and their employees usurp the available space early in the day, shutting the door on customers. As revealed by a recent study in a small city, where parking limits were for two hour periods, half of the overtime parkers were employees and workers.

An interesting paradox is that while downtown employees themselves are prone to fill up curb space that might better be used by customers, they also are opposed frequently to elimination or reduction of curb parking on the grounds that business would suffer. The fact of the matter is that more and more downtown business which could survive if it depended largely on the customers who could curb park nearby. For instance, a frontage of 60 feet can park the cars of only three customers at one time.

As street usage becomes more intensified, more and more space in downtown areas is reserved for non-parking uses. Truck loading zones, bus and cab loading zones, and entrances to large stores, theaters and public buildings, fire hydrants, all cut into space otherwise available for curb parking. Heavy traffic flows may require abolishing of parking on some streets at all times or during rush hours.

PARKING RESTRICTIONS, of course, are meaningless unless accompanied by good police enforcement. Restrictions should never be established unless police officials agree that they have the manpower to do the job . . . and the desire.

Because of the few extra spaces obtained per block, many cities have been reluctant to give up diagonal or angle parking, yet more and more are doing so in the interest of freer traffic flows and less hazardous unparking. And the old time practice of parking cars in the middle of the street likewise is vanishing.

In the days when cars were relatively few the natural way to park was to angle into the curb. And that's the way it is still done in some cities, and in numerous villages and small towns. Despite the fact that angle parking is hazardous and interferes with traffic movement, communities often cling tenaciously to it. Angle parking, however, is losing out.

Sparta, Wisconsin, a town of 6000, is in process of substituting parallel for angle parking, with much of the credit going to a local newspaper publisher and Chamber of Commerce leader who summed it up this way. Getting into an angle parking space is easier, but getting out space is something else — visibility is bad and moving traffic comes to a stop, sometimes "accidentally." He spoke with feeling for recently he had a fender ruined in a diagonal incident.

CITY OFFICIALS recently reported that the change from angle to parallel parking had reduced property damage accidents by 60 per cent, added 20 feet of driving surface to the street, and reduced congestion.

There was a time when parking meters were seen largely as an innocuous way to extract pennies and nickles from the public, and all too often they were used for that purpose. But the parking meter has shaken off this stigma, records and accomplishments of innumerable cities indicate. Today the parking meter is used first of all as an aid to enforce parking and to assure a capacity use of curb space. Secondly, its revenues can be used logically for the furtherance of traffic control and of operating safety. Such usage, being made in a growing number of cities, ploughs the motorist's money back to where it is most needed.

Important things to avoid are (a) installations in areas adjacent to the business district where they are not needed and where space could be better used for all day parking; (b) continued use of meters where parking should either be eliminated entirely or where long time parking should be permitted.

Millville, New Jersey, a city of 15,000 had severe parking pains. Customers couldn't find places to park because early rising employers and workers got down-town first. A one hour parking limit was tried but public dislike for the restriction led to lax enforcement and observation. Double parking was common. The merchants association assisted in the attempt to get all day parkers to use a parking lot a short distance from the business district, but to little avail.

Finally, the city decided to try parking meters—72 of them were installed on three blocks of the main business street, High street. Shortly, parking difficulties came to an end. The two hour limit was rigidly enforced and ticket fixing was wiped out. Turnover of curb space increased and double parking stopped. With merchants' support, an additional 118 meters were installed, covering the entire business section of nine blocks.

INCOME from the meters is applied to traffic control activities. The original 72 meters brought income of $5,140 in seven and a half months, not including some earnings from the one dollar overtime parking fine.

San Diego has found that parking meters have tripled and in some cases quadrupled the rate of parking space turnover. Muskegon, Michigan, with some 600 meters utilizes the revenues for street widening, cut backs at corners, signals and other traffic improvements. Flint, Michigan, uses the $62,000 of revenues produced annually by some 1,400 meters for similar purposes.

One of the most serious traffic problems is finding out practical methods of truck loading and unloading. General lack of loading or unloading space on the premises of stores, offices, buildings and even of factories is one of those "over sights" of bygone days which cannot be corrected over night. Many cities, however, have ordinances on the books which require inclusion of such facilities in future building plans. Our Village Attorney has been instructed to prepare a set back ordinance in the business district, but to date no ordinance has been presented.

Although the present parking system is working and there is ample parking space for the customer, I still would like to see parking meters tried on Campbell street to satisfy the business men whose customers require more than one hour parking, and eliminate the traffic tickets issued.

William W. Luehring
Alderman
Arlington Heights.

THANKS PALATINE POLICE

It is approaching my second year of residence in Palanais Park, Palatine, Illinois. The first year, through the summer months, particularly during the racing season, it was very unpleasant as well as dangerous for the children of Palanais Park to dodge the speeding traffic that was routing itself down the streets from the race track. Numerous complaints were made to the Police Department of Palatine and arrangements were made by them to police the area during the hours when the traffic was most annoying. This year it is very gratifying to see how the Palatine Police Department has reacted to the requests of the residents of the park and there has been no recurrence this year of the speeders using the streets for highways. In other words, it was a situation that was promptly licked and all of us in Palanais Park appreciate the efforts of our local law enforcing body. It has also been noticed by many of the residents the periodic trips of the Palatine squad during the early and late evening hours. This cruising of the section of Palatine that we reside in instills a sense of security.

This letter is representative of the thoughts of all of us in Palanais Park and it is just our way of telling the local police how grateful we are.

"Palanais Parker"

THANKS PAPER

With great astonishment I received your newspaper of the 21st of May, 1948, with the pictures of my children in it asking for food and clothing. I thank you for having published the pictures, and hope it will bring us some help.

We lived in Hamburg till the 24th of July, 1943, when we were totally bombed out. So I left with my children and came to this small town of Reinfield. My husband was a soldier then, and when the war came to an end, he became a prisoner of war in France from where he returned only some time ago.

Certainly you in America also know how difficult it is for a man coming home from war to begin a new job. I myself give lessons from morning to evening to the daily bread for the family. But I fear that this work will soon be over, because today we got the new money here, and nobody is now able to spend money for taking lessons. So I was very glad when I received the letter of Mrs. Godbarsen in which she sent me your newspaper with the pictures of my children.

Thanking you once more for having published them, I remain with best regards,

Marianne Sievertsen

JUST AROUND THE CORNER

Dear Jane:

"In July, 1791, as Mr. Wright, of Saint Faith's, in Norwich, was walking in his garden, a flight of bees alighted on his head, and entirely covered his hair, till they made an appearance like a judge's wig. Mr. Wright stood upwards of two hours in this situation, while the customary means were used for hiving them, which was completely done without his receiving any injury. Mr. Wright expressed a strong wish, for some days before, that a flight of bees might come on his premises."

"The larks which are caught at Dunstable are unequalled for their size and richness of flavor. Their superiority is said to be owing in a great measure to the chalky soil. On their first arrival they are very lean and weak, but they recover in a short time, and are braced and fattened by picking considerable quantities of the finest particles of chalk with their food. They are usually taken in great quantities, with trammelling nets, on evenings and mornings, from Mitchelmas to February. When dressed and served up at some of the inns in the town, 'in great perfection, by a peculiar and secret method in the process of cooking them,' they are admired as a luxury by travellers during the time they are in season; and by an ingenious contrivance in their package, they are sent ready dressed to all parts of England."

"A Hot Letter"

For Captain Lion, Brighton.
"My Dear Sir,
I anticipated a sojournment in your 'neat little country cottage' during your absence, with more pleasure than I expressed, when you made me the offer of it. I imagined how much more comfortable I should be there, than in my own out-of-town single-room. I was mistaken. I have been comfortable nowhere. The malignity of an evil star is against me; I mean the dog-star. You recollect the heat I felt in to during our Hornsey walk. I have been hot ever since, 'hissing hot'."

"After returning from the coach wherein you and your lady-cousin departed, I 'larded the lean earth' to my own house in town. That evening I go in to a hackney coach to enjoy your 'cool' residence; but 'get' was hot; and there was no 'cool of the evening.' I went to bed hot, and slept hot all night, and got up hot to a hot tea-breakfast, looking all the while on the hot print opposite, Hogarth's 'Evening,' with the fat hot citizen's wife sweltering between her husband and the New River, the hot little dog looking wistfully into the reachless warm water, her crying hot boy on her husband's stick, the scolding hot sister, and all the other heats of that ever-to-be-warmly-admired engraving. The coldest picture in the room, to my heated eye, was the fruit-piece worked in worsted—worsted in the dog-days!"

"How I got through that hot

At night, when according to Addison, 'evening shades prevail,' no heat prevailed; there was no 'cool' shades, and I got no rest; and therefore, I got restless and walked out and saw the morning star, which I supposed was the dog-star, for I sought coolness and found it not; but the sun arose, and methought there was no atmosphere but burning beams; and the metropolis poured out its heated thousands towards the New River, and it was filled with men and boys and dogs; and all looked as 'comfortable' as like eels in a stew.

"I am too hot to proceed. What a summer! The very pumps refuse 'spring' water; and, suppose, we shall have no more till next spring."

"My heart melts within me, and I am not so inhuman as to request the servant to broil this letter to the post-office, but I have ordered her to give it to the newsmen, and ask him to slip it into the first letter-box he passes, and to tell him, if he forgets, it is of no consequence, and in no hurry; he may take it on to Ludgate-hill, and Mr. Hone, if he please, may print it in his Evening-day Book. I dare say he is too hot to write, and this may help to fill up; so that you'll get it, at any rate. I don't care if all the world reads it, for the hot weather is no secret. As Mr. Freeling cannot say that printing a letter is private, conveying it, I shall not get into hot water at the post-office."

I am, my dear sir,
Your warmest friend, till winter,
I. Fry.

P. S.—I am told the sight of postmen in their scarlet coats is not bearable in London; they look red-hot."

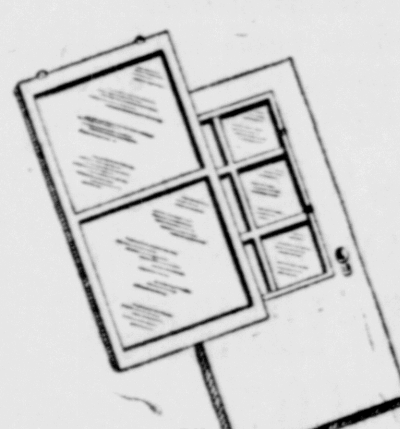

"If it rains on St. Swithin's day, there will be rain the next forty days afterwards." The occasion of this old and well-known saying is obscure. "July, to whom the dog-star in her train, St. James gives oysters, and St. Swithin, rain."

The above quotations were taken from Mr. Hone's "Every Day Book," a daily column, published in a London paper in 1826. I thought it particularly interesting that on this hot July morning on a farm in McHenry county, Alden township, in Illinois, in the good, old U. S. A. I should open my copy of this old publication to the very same date, July 15th.

With love, Mary.

Then there was the colored boy "Yellow Jacket," from New

THE MAILMAN'S CORNER

by LELAND ELLIS TRUXELL

Eighty per cent of all we do is done by force of habit alone! So say the psychologists, and when I stop to think about it, it seems to me that they could have said ninety per cent and been nearer the truth for most of us. And perhaps for others, who knows? The percentage might be higher still.

Eating, dressing, undressing, washing out teeth, shaving, combing out hair, in all of these things we need only think to do them and our subconscious mind, sprang to carry out commands without very much further conscious thought on our part.

These psychologists say something else, too. They tell us that what we do with the other ten or twenty per cent of our thinking ability determines who works for who, and who becomes wealthy, famous, or just plain happily comfortable and satisfied while the other ninety per cent of the people struggle through life, jealousy, hatred, complexes of fear, and other emotional diseases which come from inhibiting our own desires and ambitions. It isn't pure luck that puts one man on top of the pile while the others still stay down. It may be as high as five or ten per cent luck. Very rarely it is all luck. But it is generally good common sense, plus personal discipline, determination and a desirable goal to work for that makes a man a success or a failure.

For forty-six years I have been fooling around wasting my time. And now, psychologists tell me it is too late for the worm to turn.

However, I think they are wrong. I know from personal experience that people past forty can change habits, even attitudes toward life, forming new and better habits, and attitudes that changes work from mere drudgery to a daily adventure that is thrilling and satisfying.

I know that a man can still learn after forty (the psychologists say it is pretty hard after thirty), even if it is a little difficult. All it requires is more determination, a little system, the use of memory aids, like association, repetition, understanding, and so forth.

One at a time, I am changing my habits, folks. It is a great experience, elating and worth while. Why not try it with me?

the first time anywhere.

These symphony "concerts" under the stars are provided by the Chicago Park District. They begin at 8 p. m., and there is no admission charge.

Starlight Symphonies in Grant park

Chicagoans and Chicago visitors may look forward to a week of outstanding musical offerings as the sixth week of Grant Park concerts begins Wednesday, July 23. Antal Dorati of the Dallas Symphony who conducted all four concerts at Grant Park last week will stay on for two more concerts, July 28 and July 30. He will be succeeded by Arthur Fiedler, conductor of the famous Boston "Pops" orchestra, who will direct the last two concerts of the sixth week July 31 and August 1.

An All-Beethoven concert will be presented by Maestro Dorati on his Wednesday (July 23rd) program. Rafael Druian, brilliant young concert violinist who is a newcomer to Grant Park, will be featured in the Concerto in D Major. Mr. Druian will be soloist also on Antal Dorati's final concert, on Friday, (July 30th) when he will play Wieniawski's Concerto No. 2 in D Minor. The major orchestral selection will be Tchaikowsky's Symphony No. 5 in E Minor.

Arthur Fiedler's first concert on Saturday (July 31st) will be another popular, Gershwin-All-American program which last year, under Fiedler's direction drew an estimated 75,000 to the park. Eugene List, one of America's foremost pianists who gained world fame as the "Potsdam Pianist" when he played for President Truman, Churchill and Stalin, will be soloist on this program, playing Gershwin's Concerto in F Major and the Rhapsody in Blue. Two new musical compositions will be introduced on this program: "Rumbalero" by Camarata will be given its first Chicago performance and "Hot Time Dance" by Anthel will be played for

Students earn way through school at 2-year college, Evanston

"Any young person who wants an education enough to pay for it himself is bound to make an impression on a potential employer."

This was the statement made by Mr. John Gray, chairman of the Community College liaison committee of the Evanston Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Gray, president of Gray-Mills Corporation, manufacturers of automotive cleaning units, was referring to the work-study plan now in operation at the Evanston Township Community College and sponsored by the Evanston Chamber of Commerce.

Under this plan, explained Mr. Gray, a student can earn his way through college, rather than have his parents pay for it.

Mr. Gray said, "The average college student spends between $1,500 and $2,000 for an academic year of study. Under the Community College plan, however, a student can pay for his own education and save some money to boot."

Explaining the plan, Mr. Gray said that it calls for completing two full academic years of study in two calendar years. The student holds one of the four hundred-odd permanent, part-time jobs provided by the placement bureau of the college, while he is going to school.

Admission tests for the fall semester at Community College will be held at 8:00 a.m. Tuesday, August 3, in Room 324 at the Evanston Township high school, it was announced by Dr. Wood, Director of the college. Further information may be obtained at the college office, University 9600.

Dr. Wood also stressed that the college does not restrict admission to residents of Evanston. Any Illinois resident may apply.

'Bill' Erickson to be hoonred at 15th annual picnic

William N. "Bill" Erickson, president of the Cook County Board of Commissioners, will be honored Wednesday, July 28, at the 15th annual "Bill" Erickson Day at Techny Fields Golf club. The all day event is planned as a tribute to the splendid and outstanding record made by Mr. Erickson not only as a commissioner but as president of the county board.

Judge Harry Porter, general chairman of the affair, in explaining the purpose of the "Day" stated that "Bill Erickson has represented to his intimates the type of public servant who brings to the public service every one of those qualities which make for the best interests of the public, which is his employer. He possesses a sound basis business training, a thoroughly intelligent attitude toward every problem which must be solved, a spirit of willing helpfulness to all, no matter from what walk of life, a disdain for any form of favoritism, an ability and desire to give the best in him in the service of the public, and above all a keen sense of humor and justice."

Assisting Judge Porter are Aldermen Eugene Beck, William MacStevens and A. J. Murray, vice-presidents, Judge James Corcoran, secretary, and Al Conn, treasurer. The reception committee is composed of Judge Alan E. Ashcraft and Judge William V. Brothers.

The day's program with golf as a highlight, will be topped off with a dinner in the evening during which time the golf prizes as well as the many hundreds of other awards, will be presented.

Techny Fields Golf course is located on Willow road, one-half mile west of Waukegan road.

Woman with personality is one with unlimited power says psychologist

Never underestimate the power of a woman—with personality! Thus admonishes a Northwestern University psychologist, Associate Professor Albert C. Van Dusen, who is willing to tread on treacherous ground and assert a few opinions about the distaff side of society.

What's the difference between the woman with personality and her less popular sister? The professor believes that the former has a greater feeling of security within herself. All women, he generalizes dangerously, have the same fundamental desires at the roots of their behavior, but the personality girls are more glowing and self-assured because more of their wants are satisfied. And he doesn't mean mere material desires, either. He refers to goals, aims, social success, and recognition.

"A woman who genuinely feels adequate and secure finds it easy to help others gain similar satisfaction," he believes, "and with the force of her personality wins popularity by helping others. Besides experiencing personal adequacy, she is always sensitive to the other fellow's desire to taste the same successes she enjoys. What is more, she sees to it that the other fellow DOES!"

And what of those basic desires common to all women, whether they fulfill them or not? Perhaps many a dissatisfied woman will appreciate having them described for her. According to Prof. Van Dusen's analysis, here they are: more affection; a feeling of "belonging" in favorite social groups; "amounting to something"; and a feeling of recognition, achievement, and appreciation.

The psychologist sums up the woman with personality this way: "Everyone approves of her. She somehow lives in a way enabling her to like people, and to make them like her. When she's around, one just feels better himself for having been associated with her. Its as though she had some desirable, extra, unlimited 'power' which we would like to have ourselves."

Police to select 'Miss Cook County' for Cook county fair Aug. 27 - Sept. 6

Who's the Queen of Cook County?
Is she a city girl, a suburbanite or a farm girl? ... A young housewife or a career girl? ... A glamorous co-ed or a be-freckled high school teen-ager? The questions will all be answered at the Cook County Fair in Soldier Field Aug. 27-Sept. 6 when a panel of judges from the Illinois Police association selects "Miss Cook County".
Selection of the beauty queen will be made in conjunction with the opening of Bing Crosby's spectacular water follies, "Rhapsody in Swimtime," which will be staged in a lavish new pool in Soldier Field under sponsorship of the Illinois Police association as the County Fair's featured grandstand attraction. The queen and leading contenders will be awarded contracts to appear in the Crosby show.
Plans for the contest to select the queen have been made by officers of the association which includes Chicago, suburban, park district and Illinois state police; sheriffs and their deputies, state prison guards and Forest Preserve rangers.

Preliminary contests will be held in three sections of the county, from which semi-finalists will be picked for the title competition.

Miss North County will be chosen from entrants residing north of Madison street and north and east of Milwaukee avenue and Milwaukee road.

Miss West County will be chosen from entrants living in the area between the lines of Milwaukee avenue and Archer avenue.

Miss South County will be named from the area south of Madison street and south and east of Archer avenue.

Contest judges will include officers and members of the Illinois Police association in the three areas from which the semi-finalists will be chosen.

Enlistments taken for 21 month service

Enlistments for 21 months service in the army for men between the ages of 19 through 25 are now open for men who have not had previous military service, was announced this week by M/Sgt. Robert E. Eljah of the army and air force recruiting station at post office building, Evanston.

This enlistment is for the regular army, without specific assignment, and does not include service in the U. S. air force. This period is equivalent to the length of time required for draftees to serve.

Sgt. Eljah pointed out that this term of enlistment would not give any promise of assignment or geographical location, but that the men would be eligible for such training as potential leader courses and officer candidate schools, if qualified.

He also stated that a 3 year enlistment in either the regular army or air force offers a choice of branch of service and geographical location. Also selection and attendance at a service school to those qualified.

Men applying for the 21 month enlistment must show positive proof of their age and can apply at the U. S. army and air force recruiting station at post office building, Evanston, Greenleaf 6112.

Office hours are from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. Monday through Saturday.

It Happened Here

Whether we were the just or the unjust, Saturday's sluicing rain fell on us and the whole world was drowned; the curbs ran full with a swift current and wherever there could be a pond or a lake, one immediately materialized. Householders came out to examine their holdings and decide if Noah's ark could be hailed.

One resourceful and kind hearted man in hip boots bro't out his flat bottomed blue boat and launched it on the vacant lot lake where it actually floated, to the delight of all the youngsters. Six small boys in bathing suits immediately manned the boat and took turns by twos or threes in riding while the others propelled the craft; the miniature waves and the flashing white legs made a sight long to be remembered.

For years the vacant lot has been a community playground, used for ball games, for skating, for sledding and what not, but never before for boating. . . . Ann is supposed to diet but unfortunately she is unable to say no, especially if she is invited to "There is this dinner tonight," she said, "good eats and all, and of course I can't refuse, 'tain't polite, but I hope I won't gorge myself."

In the future

THINGS TO COME—Combination crib and play pen collapses and folds to resemble a piece of luggage. . . . Check-writing protector about the size of a large ashtray is available for homes and small business. . . . Metal lacquer resists 24-hour immersion in gasoline, or 15 minutes in hot oil. . . . Air cushion easily attached to gun butt eases the kick. . . . A fish lure the size of a minnow contains a battery-powered motor to give it movement in water. . . . The same mechanism is being adapted to toy frogs and ducks for children. . . . New polarized spectacles are said to reduce motor glare for day or night driving. . . . Tank to do home, air-spray painting can be filled at service station. . . . New food items: frozen quarter-turkeys, canned fried codfish cakes.

WASHINGTON SLEPT HERE.

Next week the Lake Zurich Playhouse presents "THE TAMING OF THE SHREW" by William Shakespeare, with Richard Bull in the role of Petruchio and Geraldine Page as Katherine. . . . Playing dates are August 4 through August 8. Curtain at 8:45. Since the Playhouse is playing to capacity audiences, reservations should be made in advance. ## Old, and New in Railroading Meet

CHICAGO—The famous Freedom Train had an old and distinguished visitor here when a replica of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway's hundred-year-old "Pioneer", first locomotive to serve Chicago paid a visit to the Soldier's Field exhibit area. Dressed in an 1848 costume is Pat Feely of Elmhurst, Ill., and in a bathing suit is beautiful Mykell Myers of Chicago. In contrast to the Pioneer, the Freedom Train is a 2,000 HP Diesel-Electric, which was donated by the American Locomotive Company.

Modern Etiquette

A. Hold the leaf in the fingers, dip into the sauce the end which is to be eaten and with the fingers convey the leaf to the mouth. A fork is used to cut the heart and eat it.

Q. Is it obligatory that a hostess introduce all guests at a small dinner or luncheon, or allow them to become acquainted themselves?

A. Yes, by all means, introduce them.

Q. I am a young woman and have been invited by a young couple to spend a week-end in their home. Am I expected to make my own bed, help with the dishes, etc.?

A. Any help you can give, will show a sense of breeding. However, don't make a big fuss of it and be careful that you don't get in your hostess' way, otherwise you might be hindering, rather than helping, her.

Q. Should a young woman be congratulated upon her approaching marriage?

A. No. She should receive one's good wishes for her happiness.

Q. When in an elevator of a hotel, or an office building, should a man remove his hat when a woman enters?

A. He should do so in a hotel elevator, but it is not necessary to do so in an office building or shop.

A. Yes, always. It is extremely impolite not to do so.

A. No. This kind of invitation must be accepted or declined without a moment's hesitation.

Q. If a girl should drop her handkerchief or any other article she may be holding, should she hurry to pick it up?

A. Not if she is talking with a man. She should wait for him to pick up the article, and then thank him graciously.

Scouts to participate in pageant at Park Ridge Legion festival

Paul Bunyan will visit the Park Ridge American Legion Summer Festival. Paul, with all of his crew including Sour Dough Sam, who will supervise the pancake making, will be on hand Monday evening, August 2, to make pancakes in the gigantic manner that Paul operated. Johnny Inkslinger, Paul's original bookkeeper, will be there to register those who receive pancakes. All the rest of the crew will be on hand to mix pancake batter in a concrete mixer and fry pancakes on a large griddle.

All of this is only the preliminary to the main event, which will be a pageant depicting life in and around the Chicago territory. Scouts from the Northwest Suburban council will participate in the pageant, which will lead up to the dedication of the four-day, 80-mile hike in the forest preserve. This hike, known as the "Indian Way," is jointly sponsored by the Ninth District American Legion, Mel Tierney Post, the Forest Preserve District and the Northwest Suburban Council.

Parents and friends of scouting will also have an opportunity to see a model of the new summer camp, which will be ready to serve scouts in the 1949 season. They will also have an opportunity to see the type of tents and cots scouts will be using in the summer camp.

Paul Bunyan's kitchen, where pancakes will be prepared, will open immediately after the ball game on Monday evening and will continue until the opening of the pageant at 9:00 p. m.

Expect more profits for hog producers

With fewer hogs and more corn in prospect for next winter, Illinois hog producers were given a suggested four-point program this week by L. F. Stice, extension economist in marketing, University of Illinois, College of Agriculture.

The University marketing specialist suggests the following:

1. Keep bred sows now on the farm.
2. Delay the time of marketing for late spring pigs and those farrowed this summer by growing them on legume pastures and feeding a minimum amount of grain until new corn is available.
3. Take good care of sows bred for fall pigs, and raise a maximum of pigs per litter.
4. Plan to maintain or increase moderately the number of sows to farrow 1949 spring pigs.

Markets and weather have united to make the possibility of "fewer hogs and more corn" a good probability, according to Stice. If the picture becomes a reality, hog producers will be in a more favorable position to make a profit than they have been during the past year.

Prospects for a good corn crop this year are much better than they were a year ago. Planting and growing conditions have been favorable so far.

Should clip alfalfa pastures

Your alfalfa pasture will do a better job of growing young pigs if the mature growth is clipped and the new growth allowed to get started, says Farm Adviser C. A. Hughes. Studies at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture show that new growth on alfalfa pasture is more valuable as a source of important nutrients than the mature plants. Even though there isn't enough growth to warrant taking off a hay crop, it will pay to clip the field, Mr. Hughes says.

Soil conservation short course to be held at Urbana July 27-30

The second annual Illinois soil conservation short course will be held on the campus of the University of Illinois at Urbana from July 27 to 30, it is announced by Lachlan Macleay, president of the Mississippi Valley Association, which is sponsoring the conference as a part of its soil conservation program. Soil conservation district directors from all sections of Illinois have registered for the course, which will have its theme this year, "The District Director and His Opportunities."

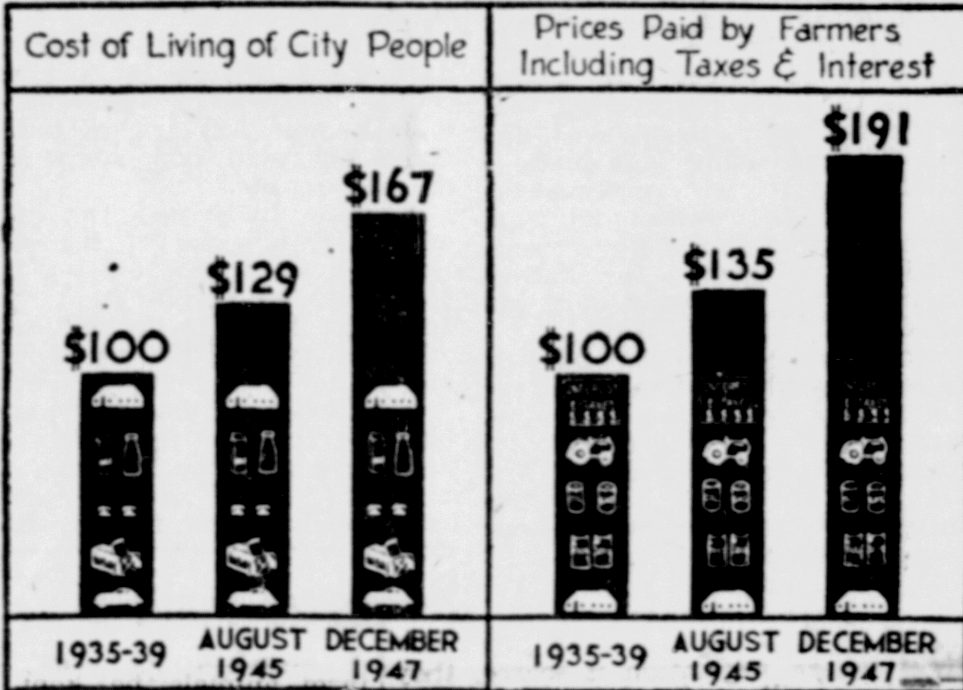

A feature of the conference will be the air observation courses provided the visiting directors, in which they will go up in the air in order to get down to earth on conservation. Planes and pilots for the air tours mapped out to study conservation problems will be provided by the university. The tours will cover Champaign, Piatt and Macon counties.

The course will open at noon on Tuesday, July 27, with a luncheon at which the guests will be welcomed by President George D. Stoddard of the university. The opening meetings will be followed by three days of intensive lectures and technical discussions. Some of the subjects listed for discussion include "Making Annual Meetings Click," and "Organizing Neigh-

Angina Pectoris

Angina pectoris literally means a strangling in the chest, and is often a symptom of coronary artery disease, although it may be due to other conditions. The intensity of the pain puts the angina trouble in a separate class. The attack is brief. It is brought on by exercise, excitement, exertion, or any temporary situation in which the flow of blood through the coronary arteries is insufficient.

Costs at the End of World War II

Price controls during World War II were effective in holding down both the cost of living in cities and cost of farm production. In August 1945, if available, city consumers could buy for $129 the same quantity of goods that in the pre-war period cost $100. In comparison, in August 1945, it cost farmers $135 to buy what $100 would buy from 1935-39.

Rise in Cost of Living

Elimination of price controls since the war ended resulted in sharp increases in both city living costs and in farm production costs. City consumers, in December 1947, paid $167 for food, rent, clothing and other items that cost them $100 before the war.

Rise in Farm Production Costs

Costs of farm production rose even more rapidly than cost of living in cities. Farmers in October 1947, paid $191 for the same items that cost them $100 in the pre-war period.

Wages of farm labor in 1947 not included in the above items were nearly three and one-half times those paid before the war.

EGGS. In 1919 the Illinois legislature passed an act "in relation to the handling and sale of eggs and the manufacture of egg products." This act defines as unfit for human food an egg that is "addled or moldy, that contains black rot, white rot or a blood ring; that has an adherent yolk or a bloody or green white; that is incubated beyond the blood ring stage; or that consists wholly or in part of filthy, decomposed or putrid substance."

To help insure consumers that such eggs will not be offered for sale, the following provisions are made:

1. It is unlawful for any person to sell, offer for sale, or have in his possession with intent to sell, eggs that are unfit for human food.
2. Purchasers of eggs either for retail or wholesale disposal must candle all eggs offered to them, must refuse to purchase unfit eggs and must dock producers offering such eggs for sale. Candling must be done in the presence of the producer if he so requests.
3. Unfit eggs, except those with a putrid odor, must be broken and rendered unfit for sale.

They may be found in the Illinois Revised Statutes, Chapter 56 1/2, section 47-55.

University women establish play school to study health conditions of Mexican children in Elk Grove

Dr. Horst of Dr. Piszczek's office of the county health office, painted so vividly before a group of Des Plaines women the living conditions of Mexican families who are employed on truck farms in Cook County, that the women decided to do something about it.

With only meager sanitary conditions many of the children are afflicted with dysentery and county health authorities are alarmed. The real purpose of the play school outlined in the following news release, is to study health conditions. Announcement of the play school plans follows:

As the last week in July approaches, members of the American Association University Women are busy completing details of their summer play school for Mexican children. The nursery school begins on July 26 and ends August 6. With intentions of including a greater number of children in following years, A. A. U. W. is starting with a group in the vicinity of St. John's Reform Church, Lawrence ave. and Mt. Prospect road.

A SURVEY was made by local Cook County Health Officers to determine the number of preschool Mexican children, conditions of living quarters, and respective locations around Des Plaines. At present the need for this type of work appears most urgent in the Elk Grove vicinity. From this summer's nursery school A. A. U. W. hopes to find out in which way the migrant children may be helped most; future projects sponsored by the organization will be based on results of this summer's school.

Each member working on the program feels that it is not a "coddling" one; it is not intended as charity. Studies of the migrant workers show that they are willing and able to pay for services and things they receive. They want their children to have what other children have.

A COUNTY HEALTH officer stated after her survey, "The children are nice; they are appreciative and grateful." The aim of the play school is the acceptance of the migrant workers and their children as fellow human beings; to provide for them what we ourselves enjoy during the summer—a few hours of recreation for the small Mexican children and relaxation for any of their mothers who can attend.

MOST IMPORTANT part of the project is the free physical examinations and immunizations offered by Dr. Horst and by Miss Feelen of the Cook County Public Health office. As a member of A. A. U. W., Dr. Horst challenged the group to sponsor a program to benefit the children of our migrant workers; she has been very active in its formation and will give more of her time during the school period.

If there are any women interested in helping during the nursery sessions, A. A. U. W. welcomes them. They are to call Mrs. H. B. Bishop, Des Plaines 1391-R before Sunday, July 25.

WORKING with Mrs. W. J. Hartman, general chairman, are the following committee members: Mrs. H. B. Bishop, Mrs. L. A. Wright, and Mrs. Frank Marriett, place committee; Mrs. R. J. Longini, Mrs. W. F. Armstrong, Miss Caroline Wenz, Mrs. A. J. Prickett, Mrs. Wendell Under, children's program.

Mrs. Frank Keys, Mrs. C. H. Bentley, Mrs. A. L. Wells, Mrs. Charles Robinson, mother's program; Mrs. E. M. Kleinhauer and Mrs. G. E. Concidine, refreshments; Mrs. A. J. Prickett and Mrs. Rod Ruth, Mexican contact.

Bits o' business

Many steel users have had their competitive positions damaged by the shift to the f. o. b. pricing system. They are certain to ask Congress for relief, and the chances are good for legislation of some method of basing points... Plastics, famous for price reductions, are being forced upward in the general spiral. DuPont announced the second rise in the list of cellophane after previously recording 21 successive price reductions. Plexiglas sheeting also is up... The 17 per cent passenger-fare rise granted eastern railroads will increase their revenues $61 million a year... The New York Central Railroad has received the first sleeping car to be built for the road since the war. A 22-unit roomette type, it was built by Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing Co... The building boom continues without sign of interruption. The Department of Commerce estimates the value of work put in place in May at $1.6 billion. This is not only higher than the anticipated seasonal gain but surpasses the previous highs of July, 1942, and October, 1947... The United States is now buying just about half as much as it is selling abroad... With the proper promotion, almost any item can be turned into big business. For instance, $22 million worth of orchids will be sold this year... While ECA is bound to be a boon to U. S. exporters, individuals in that line of work are finding out that the business will not be dropped in their laps. Exporters must exert a great deal of effort to get ECA trade. Moreover, prices will be subject to careful ECA scrutiny... Stockpiling of oil throughout the world by the U. S. military is marking time, awaiting Congressional sanction of certain unrevealed plans to be submitted next January.

Grasshoppers to be abundant this year

Worst since 1936; urges application of insecticide now

The worst since 1936 is the way the grasshopper situation is described by Dr. George C. Decker, Entomologist of the Illinois Natural History Survey and the Agricultural Experiment Station.

Except in unusually dry areas where vegetation is scarce, they are still confined largely to the areas where they hatched—fencerows, roadsides, clover and alfalfa fields.

"But we are rapidly approaching a day when the hoppers will begin migrating into corn, soybeans and other crops," Dr. Decker warns. "Whenever possible, they should be destroyed before this migration begins."

"If places that harbor grasshoppers are treated now, costs will be comparatively low and in many cases the increased production of hay or seed will more than pay for the cost of treatment. But if treatment is delayed, the hay and clover seed will be practically lost in many fields and we will have considerable damage to adjoining crops. A delay in treatment also means an increase in cost of treatment because of the larger acreage that will have to be treated."

Most insecticide dealers have on hand only limited supplies of insecticides, and several days may be required to obtain additional materials. Lake-Cook Farm Supply Company has some material but not enough for heavy demand.

"We are recommending the use of sprays containing one of two rather new insecticides, chlordane or Toxaphene, in preference to baits," Dr. Decker says. "These materials are more efficient and effective. Farmers are urged to consult their farm advisers on rates of application or to follow closely the instructions provided by the manufacturers. DDT has not proved effective against grasshoppers."

Chlordane and Toxaphene are regarded as reasonably safe for agricultural use, but Dr. Decker cautions against applying them to food or forage crops within three weeks of harvest.

"While there seems to be little danger that animals that accidentally range in areas soon after treatment will be seriously affected, we urge that all farm animals be kept out of treated fields for at least two or three weeks following treatment," Dr. Decker cautions.

"Chlordane is very effective and we suggest you follow directions of distributor in its use," says Farm Adviser Hughes.

Walleye Pike
Walleye pike is a well known night feeder, lying in water from 10 to 20 feet deep just outside of the weeds during the day, but moving in to the shallow water at night to feed on the small fry. Walleyes sometimes strike at first sight but often they cautiously peek at first

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—its itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feeling tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages are sometimes further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over, insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

Blue Babies

So much has appeared in the press during the past year about "blue babies" that I thought you might be interested in hearing something of these children who have been spared a life of invalidism through the miracle of modern surgery.

The term "blue baby" refers to the fact that these children develop a purplish discoloration of the lips, skin and fingernails as a result of an insufficient amount of oxygen in the blood stream. Such a discoloration, which we call cyanosis, may be seen in other conditions such as obstruction of the throat, heart failure, drowning, choking or any other disturbance in which the person does not get an adequate amount of oxygen. In blue babies this lack of oxygen is caused by malformation of the heart. The blood vessel which goes to the lungs is abnormally small and is incapable of providing enough oxygen-loaded blood for the body. Because of other abnormal changes in the heart most of the blood is short-circuited past the lungs. Thus the blood passing into the general body system may be only 40-50% saturated with oxygen instead of the normal 95%.

The symptoms of this condition (which we term Tetralogy of Fallot—a malformation named after its discoverer) are the result of the altered structure within the heart. This cyanosis is usually noted during the first few months of life and is generally progressive. When narrowing of the pulmonary artery is not great the cyanosis may not be noted until the child is able to walk or run. In addition, shortness of breath and easy fatigability become apparent. Characteristically the child walks or runs a short distance and then has to squat in order to rest and get his wind back. Sometimes shortness of breath or cyanosis may occur after feeding or any other exertion.

Our knowledge of these patients has progressed in the last few years so that we are now able, by means of various tests to determine whether or not the Tetralogy of Fallot is present in these babies.

If such a diagnosis is made surgery is indicated, since the majority can be either completely cured or improved to the point where they are able to take part in normal physical activity. A nearby artery is spliced into the vessel leading to the lungs. This allows a normal blood flow into the organs where an adequate supply of oxygen is available. Almost immediately after the operation the dusky purple color disappears, the shortness of breath is relieved, and soon the child is able to run and play as though nothing had happened.

Although occasionally the malformations found at operation are too extensive to correct, the operation is successful in about three-fourths of the cases. This is a remarkable achievement since previously practically all of these youngsters died during childhood. The world owes a great debt to the men who have developed this operation—the fruit of painstaking research and animal experimentation in developing a technique for blue babies.

Railroad fair pulls in to Chicago 'siding' for summer stay

The Chicago Railroad Fair, largest national exposition ever presented by a single industry, opened Tuesday, July 20, on the site of the 1933-34 Century of Progress on Chicago's lake front. Commemorating the introduction of railroading to Chicago and the West by the Chicago and North Western railway 100 years ago, the mammoth railroad fair is the joint undertaking of the nation's major railroads, and railroad supply and equipment dealers.

Occupying more than 50 acres of exhibit area, the fair will run through the middle of September.

More than 200 men and women, using 800 costumes, will act out the history of railroading in the "Wheels-A-Rolling" pageant, a huge spectacle to be presented on a stage 450 feet in width before a grandstand seating 5,000.

One of the star performers in the pageant will be the North Western's 112 year-old Pioneer locomotive, first railroad engine in Chicago and the West. The Pioneer, a ten-ton wood burning engine, will operate under its own steam in the pageant, marking the first time it has operated under its own power in more than seventy years.

Family picnics more popular than ever in Cook county forest preserve areas

The old fashioned family picnic this year is on a startling up-swing. Records in the office of William N. Erickson, president of the board of forest preserve commissioners show that thus far there have been 4,400 organization picnics, against 3,920 the same date last year.

Organization picnics require a permit which is issued by Miss Marie Murley, picnic permit clerk, Room 335 County Building.

Family picnics of fewer than 25 need no permit.

Many persons who attend an organization picnic, most of which are held on Saturday or Sunday, become so enamored of the woods that they come in family groups during the week days.

"We encourage that kind of picnics," President Erickson says. "People attending organized or large picnics participate in the fun offered by this type of picnic, but do not get the real benefits offered in the forests, hence, they now come in smaller groups week days. They bring lunches, cook coffee and meats and potatoes on fire places found close by, and enjoy a restful day in the open."

Because of this increase in family groups, President Erickson has compiled a list of select spots ideal for small group picnics equipped with water, fire places, shelter, comfort conveniences and lots of shade. They can witness the manifestations of nature in the activities of birds and animals, and see a variety of flowers, shrubs, trees and lush vegetation.

Family picnic areas in this vicinity are:

SEEKS $25,000 DAMAGES

M. E. and Elizabeth Steele have sued Jacques Saikin in the Superior court for damages for injuries in an automobile accident on Sept. 2 last. Steele was driving south on U. S. 41 at Dempster st., near Skokie and Saikin was driving north. As Steele was turning east into Dempster street the other car ran into his car and injured Elizabeth who asks $25,000 damages. M. E. asks $500 for damage to his car.

Forest River

W. Brash is enjoying his vacation by visiting old friends and neighbors. Last Wednesday he took his family to visit former Forest Riverites at Bristol, Wis. They called on Mr. and Mrs. Luepekeman, who formerly lived on Foundry road. They say the Luepekemans are well and happy and have adopted two little boys since leaving Forest River.

Verna Brash is working and vacationing in Chicago with an aunt while her folks are entertaining a little cousin of hers for the next few weeks.

Mrs. Remsing attended a special meeting of officers and chairmen of the Portage Park Women of the Moose last Wednesday. As social service chairman, she also attended a special chapter meeting at the Cicero lodge last Thursday. Tyra Magnuson from Moose-Heart was guest of honor at this meeting and spoke on the duties of an officer and chairman.

The annual community picnic this year will be given jointly by the Ladies auxiliary and Feenaville PTA. All residents of Forest River are cordially invited to attend, and may bring their lunches. Mrs. P. Kleeman is in charge of the affair and the date is Tuesday, July 27, at Lake ave. shelter, on the North side of Lake street and River road. The picnic will start at 11 a. m. Bring a cup or glass as glasses will not be supplied.

John and Martha Toth spent their two-week vacation with friends at a cottage at Hayward, Wis., fishing, swimming and resting. They left the week end of the Fourth.

Mr. Price is in a serious condition at Alexian Brothers hospital due to an accident June 26 in front of his home when the Renaldo dog knocked him down. He sustained a broken hip, and due to his advanced age, complications set in. The dog is a Great Dane.

Forest River fire department is planning another dance and good time for all Saturday, Sept. 18, at the club house. Keep the date open and tell your friends.

Mrs. Margaret Pohlman was very ill last week. She was being treated for a kidney infection and a strep throat. We hope she will be her smiling self again soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Hans Brogmus and sons Kenneth and Russell left early Sunday morning for a fishing trip and vacation in and around Wisconsin.

Harold Sunde has just completed his two-week vacation. He returned to the "old grind" Monday, while G. Seilheimer started his two weeks of rest Saturday, July 17.
